TR. HILTON'S LAWYERS SHOW WHERE THE MILLIONS WENT.

IR ROOT SPENDS AN HOUR IN CROSS-EXAMIN-ING THE EXPERT ACCOUNTANT, AND DIS-POSES, HE THINKS, OF MORE THAN HALF OF THE $3,827,623 SUED FOR BY THE PROPONENTS-OTHER REDUCTIONS PROMISED BEFORE THE TRIAL

ENDS. When the counsel in the Siewart will case appeare n the Surrogate's Court yesterday there was still quarter of an hour before the hearing was to begin. The interval was taken up with a discussion of the political prospects of to-day. All the principal men of the bar who are trying this case are carnest Re-publicans and their conversation showed the sanguine hope with which they looked forward to the results of this year's election. Ex-Surrogate Rellins was Surrogate Ransom, whose appearance cut short the ussion of politics.

Expert Accountant John Charles Mercer was again seed on the stand, and continued the testimony which, on the face of it, seemed to reveal a great deal of inconsistent business methods. Before the day was over, however, it turned out that the proponents were prepared for just such attacks.

PLENTY OF FIGURES PUT FORTH.

The witness continued the testimony he had begu last Wednesday with reference to the credits placed to the account of Henry Hilton on the special journal. Last Thursday's Tribune covered this testimony until September 30, 1885, and the sum reached was supplemented by yesterday's testimony with amounts cov-ering the books until September 30, 1886. The total credits amounted to $14,845,202 0s. This included the $3,170,192 70 estimate of Mr. Stewart's share in the business at the time of his death. The debits of Judge Hilton's account during the same period, these debits being incurred by expenditures directly caused by the management of the business, amounted to $500,337, leaving the net balance of credit to Mr. Hilton, $14,344,865 08. Summarizing and classifying the credits on Mr. Hilton's account, Mr. Mercer read this table:

$8,170,192 70 Capital less losses, and after deduction of four months' rent and the payment to Libbey of a guarantee of $150,000. Marine and fire insurance interes, on Hitton's account, after deducing under date of June 30, 1876, as interest from Mrs. Stewart. Rents from milis Adjustments with Libbey Burdries . $14,344,865 08

Hilton was owing on April 10, 1876?

The witness—They do not not do they, therefore, show how the interest amounting to $865 22 was computed.

Mr. Mercer read a long list of debit charges over Mr. Hilton's account, which consisted principally of his personal expenditures as represented by his drawings from the credits placed to his account. The next question evoked a reading of the account of William Libbey, which during the period of ten years was totalized to show debits to the amount of $49,733 86 and credits summing up $1,135,245 90, leaving a balance to Mr. Libbey's credit of $1.035,512 04. Adding the net credits of Mr. Hilton, this would leave, as the development of the funds left by Mr. Stewart in the business, the huge sum of $15,430,577 12. EXAMINATION OF MRS. STEWART'S BOOKS.

The examination now returned to the "C. M. S." (Mrs. Stewart's) books. The first accounts read were the debits and credits of the Saratoga property. Mr. Cleveland then asked the counsel for proponents to produce the lease for the property occupied by the Stewart business, covering the Tenth-st, store, and this was done, the object of the testimony being evidently to account for the charges of ground rent on the estate "What charges do you find," was the next question, "for alterations on the Stewart Building after February 24, 1884, the date of the transfer of that property to Judge Hilton ?" Mercer read a long list of payments made for completing the Stewart Building after the date given, which amounted to $189,710 31. For all these ex-penses, including bi-monthly payments, pay-rolls for engineers, the architect, gasmen, watchmen and laborers, vouchers were placed in evidence. Another series of vouchers were marked as exhibits which wen to show that Judge Hilton, as agent for Mrs. Stewart, bought various articles for her and appeared as seller in the transaction. A bill from Tiffany in 1881, for $2,581, was indorsed: " Add diamonds and fancy ring. on account of H. H., $700." Another of the same od read: "Mrs. Cornella M. Stewart, to jewelry, $7,292.95, add $800 on account of H. H.," July 8, 1881. Then, in 1883, 1885 and 1886, Mr. Hilton appeared as selling horses to the estate, the amount Finally, Judge Hilton sold to the being $12,418 33. estate furniture for the Lafayette place property to the amount of 82,211.

MR. HILTON'S SALES TO MRS. STEWART.

Q.—Do you find in addition to these sales any other record on the books of sales by Henry Hilton to Cornella M. Stewart? A.—Yes, sir. On June 26, 1876, the total debit of Mrs. Stewart was $795,090 21, and her total credit $61,762 15. That left her in debt to Mr. Hilton to the amount of $733.337 06.

Q.—It was testified by Mr. Hopkins in the special term that on April 10, 1876, the interest of Mr. Stewart, amounting to $8,170,505 57, was placed to Mr. Hilton's credit as eash. When did you find it recorded on the books? A .- On December 31, 1876.

Q.-On page 87 of the special journal, do you find a record of interest on that amount for two months and twenty days, from April 10 to June 30, 1876, credited to the estate? A.-I find the place where such a credit was entered, but the amount has been erased. The paper was scratched, and there are no figures visible. There are no other erasures of the kind in the book. The amount there ought to be $108,954 20. Instead I find a credit to Mrs. Stewart of $5,519 19. Mr. Root-Is there really enough at that spot to show what should have appeared?

The witness-Yes, sir.

THE SPECIAL FEATURE OF THE DAY.

The contestants for several days had been developing testimony tending to show that charges had been made against Mrs. Stewart on account of the Stewart Building alterations after that property had left her sports after their visit to the ballot box to-day. ossession. The proponents, as represented by Elihu Root, calmly placed in evidence an agreement, dated February 25, 1884, and signed by Mrs. Stewart, which showed that the transfer of the Stewart Building to played at the same grounds between two teams made Mr. Hilton had been made with the understanding up of New-York and Brooklyn players. to be borne by Mrs. Stewart. The cross-examination | tween the New-York club players and a picked team brought out further that no payments were charged of professionals. to Mrs. Stewart after that date which did not come under the provisions of that agreement. Mr. Mercor in the afternoon between the Princeton and Wesleyan acknowledged that in the examination of the books be elevens. The Princeton men so far this season have had received every ald from counsel of proponents and from Judge Hilton.

Mr. Root concluded his cross-examination for the day by eliciting the acknowledgment from the wit-ness that the latter had never heard of a case in which expenditures for improvements, building and purchases were charged against income. On this basis, Mr. Root caused Mr. Mercer to sum up the amounts expended by Mrs. Stewart for new buildings, repairs and purchases on different divisions of the property. Davis and others ounts reached were:

Total $1,473,198.25 This amount, Mr. Root claimed, was to be placed to the credit of Mrs. Stewart as asset capital, because it existed as permanent investment. The deficit of Mrs. Stewart's account during the ten years, $11, 205 63, being subtracted, this would still leave a balance of $1,461,992 62 of existing investments of her browns.

ome. The amount which the contestants cases was lost The amount which the contestants chem was lost under Judge Hilton's management of the estate was $3,927,625 59. Against this amount, at the time of Mrs. Stewart's death, was $535,424 69 delts, leaving a balance of $2,789,199 50. Against this last difference, Mr. Root placed the $1,461,992 62 arrived at, and proposes to reduce the supposed loss still further by showing how the money was invested.

The examination will continue next Monday.

Charles Fay, George Green and James Cassidy are now in the Long Island City Jail on a charge of cobbery preferred by George Moddle, of Woodsburg L. 1., having been arrested by Officer S. S. Stewart. While Mr. Moddle and his wife were at church on Sunday their house was broken into and a quantity of clothing and silverware was carried off. The stolen articles were found in Fay's possession, and he acknowledged the crime, but claimed that the other two were innocent. Fay is one of the boys implicated in the murder of Keeper Edward Coles, on Randall's Island, with a baseball bat. Fay was re-turned at the time to the House of Refuge, but those in charge could do nothing with him. Upon his release he was employed by Mr. Moddle.

ON TRIAL FOR KILLING HIS WIFE.

PACKENHAM'S BLOODY ACT DESCRIBED BY THE WITNESSES.

Patrick Packenham, the gray-haired slaver of his ife, looked worn and haggard as he listened yesterday to the testimony against him on his trial before order smyth on a charge of murder in the first Robert Packenham, the son of the deidant, was on the witness-stand for a time, and on cross-examination said he had been addicted to the use of liquor since he was seven years old, and had been arrested for drunkenness when he was twelve years of age. He told of his father's previous attempts to commit suicide and to kill his wife. Richard Cook, about fifteen years old, who was in the room when the murder was committed, described in nearly the same manner as Robert Packenham had done on the first day of the trial, the scene in the ham was intoxicated, walked up and down the halls cursing, had a fight with a neighbor, was twice threatened with arrest by policemen called by the wife, and finally, entering the room where Mrs. Packenham was, pulled his wife's head forward and cut a gash with a razor across the back of her neck. His son Robert and the witness, Cook, knocked Packenham down and took the razor away from him-John Pohlman, who lived on the same floor with Packenham, testified to the defendant's conduct on the night of the murder. Policeman Fagin testified that he was called to the house by young Packenham a few hours before the murder. He found Packenham intoxicated and the wife asked for his arrest for assaulting her. Packenham pleaded with his wife and promised to treat her well if she would forgive him and not send him to prison. She said:

this time I will forgive you, as you say that you will do better. I do not make any complaint." The son, Robert, said, "If you don't have him arrested he will cut your throat before morning."

"Never mind," said the wife, "I can only die once and I will not have him arrested now."

Policeman Cairns, who was called to the house at a late hour, gave similar testimony. The trial will proceed to morrow.

SOLID SILVER WARES.

The works of our Company at Providence are much the most extensive and complete devoted to the manufacture of Solid Silver Ware in the world, but with the increase of our business it has become necessary for us to make preparations for insuring a larger production than our present facilities will enable us to make. Meantime the high quality of workmanship and finish which, combined with absolute reliability as to quality of Silver, has given our Wares their high character with the public, will be maintained, at the highest standard known, and our prices will be as reasonable as for goods of inferior manufacture and quality.
